Sue Ryder
Thorpe Hall
Hospice

Whether in the last months, weeks or days of life, or living with grief, Sue Ryder helps people live the best life they possibly can. Sue Ryder is there when it matters.

Last year, the charity provided palliative care to thousands of families across the country, including from Sue Ryder Thorpe Hall Hospice here in Peterborough - the only specialist palliative care inpatient in the city - as well as a Hospice at Home service for patients who prefer to receive palliative care at home.

The Peterborough Sue Ryder hospice also provides complimentary therapy for people living with a life-limiting condition as well as rehabilitation, spiritual care and family and bereavement support including new Grief Kind Spaces in neighbouring Bourne and Stamford, Lincolnshire.

Sue Ryder relies on its incredible supporters to help raise crucial funds for its care, at a time where demand for their services are increasing. Your support will help Sue Ryder continue to deliver its expert and compassionate care and be there for families at the most difficult times of their lives.
